

Core Principles:

Suncorp is committed to high ethical standards (transparency, fairness and honesty) in its approach to political engagement.

Suncorp has adopted the following four guiding principles which shape our approach to political engagement. Suncorp will:

- be transparent and honest;
- not make direct cash donations;
- strive to deliver shared value for Suncorp's shareholders, customers and communities; and
- maintain a bipartisan approach.

Our Policy Position:

1. Suncorp's approach to political engagement is based on commitments to delivering shared value and supporting the best interests of our business, customers, shareholders and wider community

Suncorp supports the democratic process and contributes to public policy development that is aligned to the best interests of our business, our customers, our shareholders and the wider community.

Suncorp's public policy positions are outlined in our submissions, white papers and through media and communications materials that are published on Suncorp's website. Suncorp is a member of various industry, business, economic and community associations, which undertake advocacy work with Government. Our memberships are acknowledged publicly on the associations' respective websites.

Suncorp maintains a bipartisan approach to all political engagement and interface. Decisions made by any Employee, Officer or Board member of Suncorp should not be influenced by any personal political preferences or memberships.

2. Suncorp does not provide cash donations to political stakeholders

Suncorp does not make cash donations to Political Stakeholders or organisations directly affiliated with Political Stakeholders. Further, Suncorp does not pay to attend events conducted by Political Stakeholders where the attendance fee may constitute a political donation.

3. There is Board oversight of the company's political engagement

Australian and New Zealand senior management report on Suncorp's participation in public policy work. This information is provided annually to the Suncorp Board and New Zealand Boards respectively, for their consideration.

Suncorp's Political Engagement Policy is reviewed and approved by Suncorp's Board Risk Committee.

4. Employees and Officers may give political donations in a personal capacity

Suncorp Employees and Officers are entitled to act in their capacity as private citizens for any political purpose, however, any such contribution or engagement should not be considered to be made on behalf of, or in any way connected with, Suncorp. This includes making personal donations to Political Stakeholders.