Suncorp appoints Head of Investments

Suncorp has appointed Patrick Farrell as the Group's new Head of Investments.

Mr Farrell previously held the role of Chief Investment Officer and Head of Advance Asset Management at Westpac's wealth management arm, BT Financial Group, from 2008 until June this year. He also has significant experience specifically working with investments in the insurance industry.

Mr Farrell will report to Suncorp Deputy Chief Financial Officer Jeremy Robson and will be responsible for the Group's portfolio of investments and funds under management.

"Patrick brings a wealth of experience to Suncorp having worked in the financial services industry for nearly 30 years and managed insurance investment teams for more than 10 years," Mr Robson said.

"He will be a great asset to the team and we look forward to the contribution Patrick will make to the organisation."

Mr Farrell started with Suncorp on 18 July.
